what then am I to say of things
 as they are:
 that I enjoy always the smell of new books that certain people are a joy to me

 what then am I to say:
 that watching people
 decide and choose gives me a sense of home
 that we are the only ones
 that could possibly be us and we are

 oh how I love
 I say:
 so many things I see I love dearly
 the men with blue eyes
 the girl with hazel
 dandelions in the lawn
 a crucifix that says yes to me and borrowing time on tomorrow
 these do I love much and well
 so much and so well always much and
 always very well

when I see tempera on the windows or a favorite Bible verse
 see brown eyes go browner
 and blue eyes go midnight
 or hear a laugh or smell chalk or feel a hard arm or taste Indian summer in the air then my heart is gone because everyone and everything else has need of it and I give it away

Leaders— One Of A Kind

In a school like Central, where leadership and individuality are stressed, students need guidance, good examples, and leaders to trust.

Central Catholic has found two such special guides in Fr. Don Larmore and Mr. Jim Gibson.

New to the administrative staff of Central Fr. Don acted as Director. The students found in him an excellent example of the individuality and concern that he tried to emphasize.

This year found Mr. Gibson as Central's principal. An active and dedicated man, he strove for the high ideals that Central sets in the areas of leadership, responsibility and individuality.

With the help of these two very capable men, the students of Central found themselves on the road to achieving their long-range goals.

Looking Forward

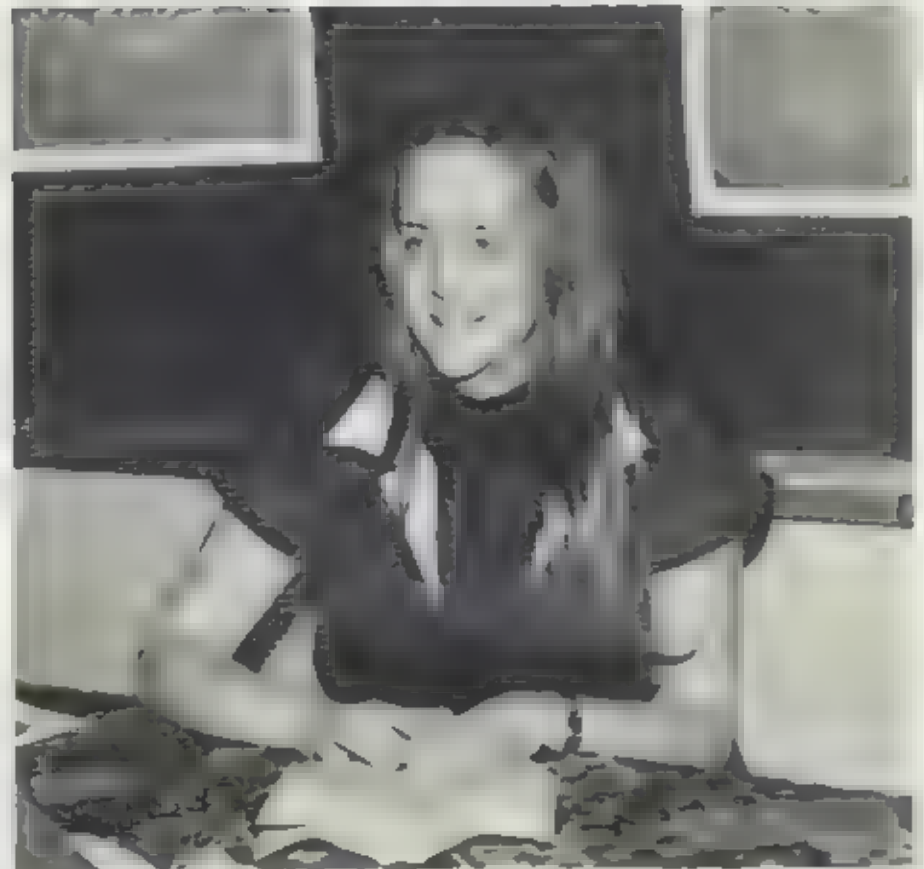

A counselor may be described, not only as one who advises, but also as one who encourages the mutual exchange of ideas and opinions. There is no better way to describe Mr. Chuck Breunig, counselor at Central. With the interest of the students always at heart, Mr. Breunig was kept busy with planning, discussing, and helping others decide and understand what they will achieve during life.

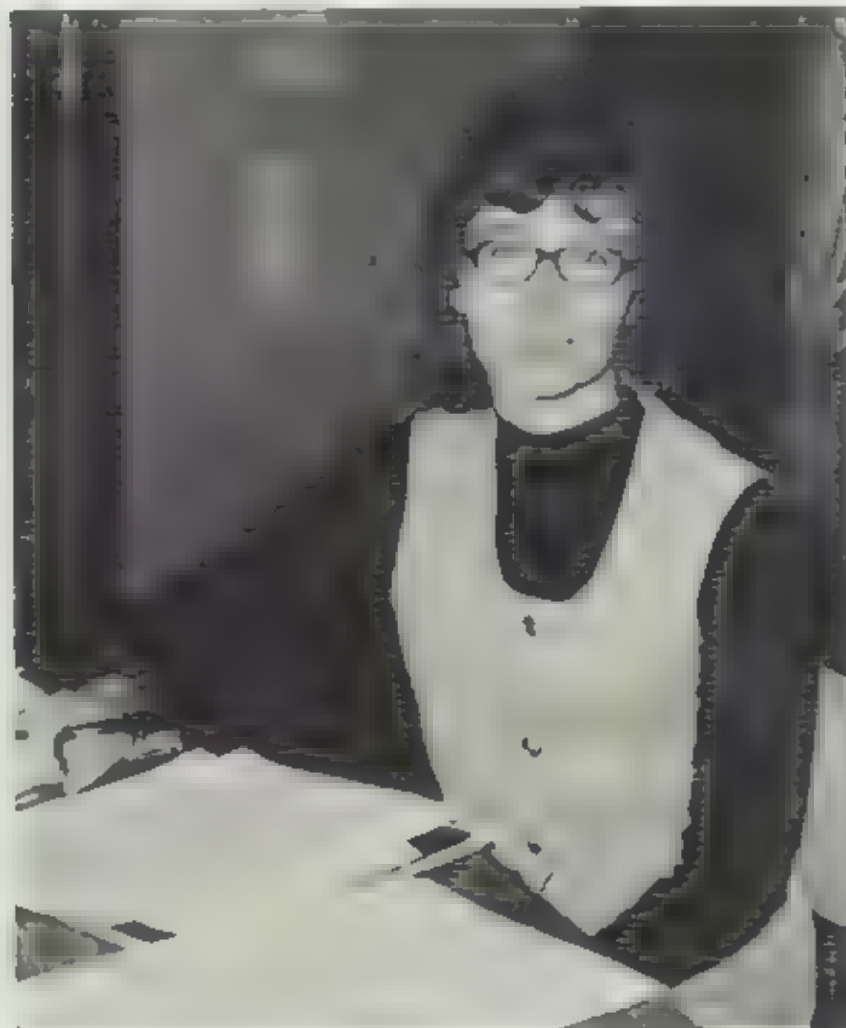

Prepare Ye The Way Of The Lord!

Fr. Ray Kosmicki, teacher of Theology to upperclassmen, strove to help us all know the Lord just a little better

Sharon Jakobowski, in her second year on the staff, kept on loving Central as she spread a lot of good news

A new and very welcome addition to the department, Sr. Mary Francis came to know Central well

"You place credence in something entirely contrary to the fact," smiles Fr. Tropey. He teaches junior and senior Theology

From Days Gone By

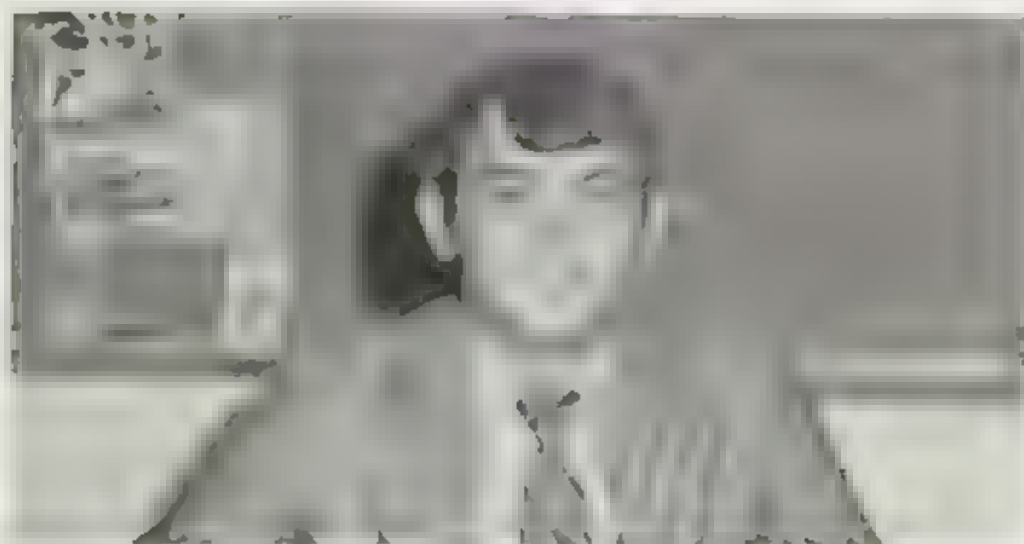

Mr. Northup taught social science as well as physical education

Sr. Ruth Therese spent her time teaching history to 8th, 11th and 12th graders. She also served as Head of the Social Science Department

As well as being head football and wrestling coach, Mr. Stevie also found time to teach accounting and history

Mr. Tesmer kept busy by teaching social studies, American Problems and English. He also served as head Jr. Hi coach

The Book Of Numbers

Below is a picture of Sr. I.A. dressed to represent the individual for the month of November. He is the Mt. Carmel.

Sr. Alex B. is here to greet her students with that booming voice. She teaches upper vision math and geometry.

Below is Sr. Theresa. She has spent the year studying her students.

They That Love Literature

Sr. Jeanne used wit and drama to make her classes interesting

Sr. Sylvia taught her students the importance of literature

Mrs. Kay's classes were always fun due to all the interesting topics studied and her ready smile.

Sr. Margaret Ann shared her knowledge by teaching English and journalism. She also served as sponsor of the Lance

The Einstein Club

In his first year at Centra, Mr. Shumann managed to become very popular

Sr. Marilyn strove for perfection in all areas of her work.

As Activities Director, Student Council sponsor, and Science Department Head, Mr. Kayl found time to teach as well as ever.

Women Rule

As Librarian, Sr. Agatha kept all the books and magazines in order.

Always ready and willing to help Mrs. Levick served as Business Department Head and this year took the class to the La Jolla Fair and Shortland.

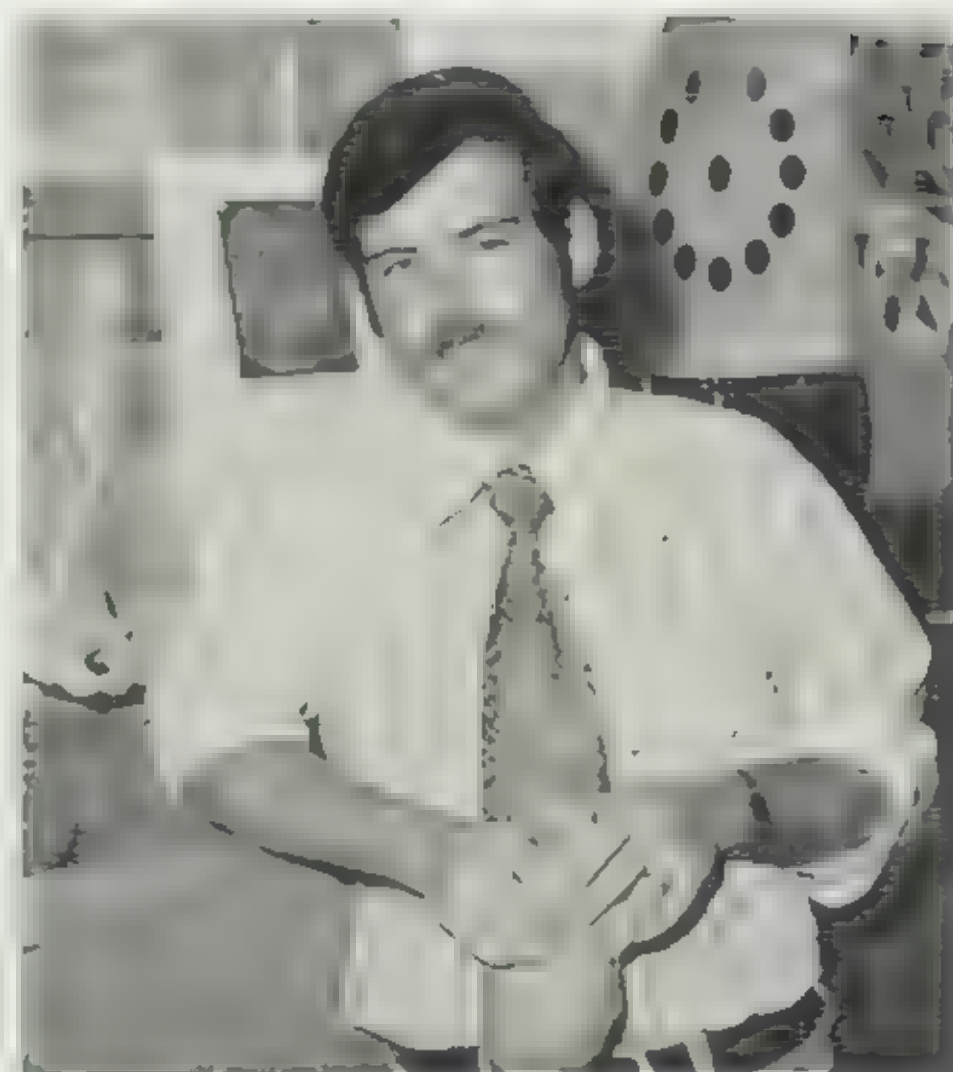

Mrs. Pineda directed Home Ec by offering a course in child development. Along with the class she also taught English, sewing and cooking, even to boys!

Noted for her organization and fine teaching qualities, Sr. Jane Agnes made foreign languages a must. She also taught 8th grade English.

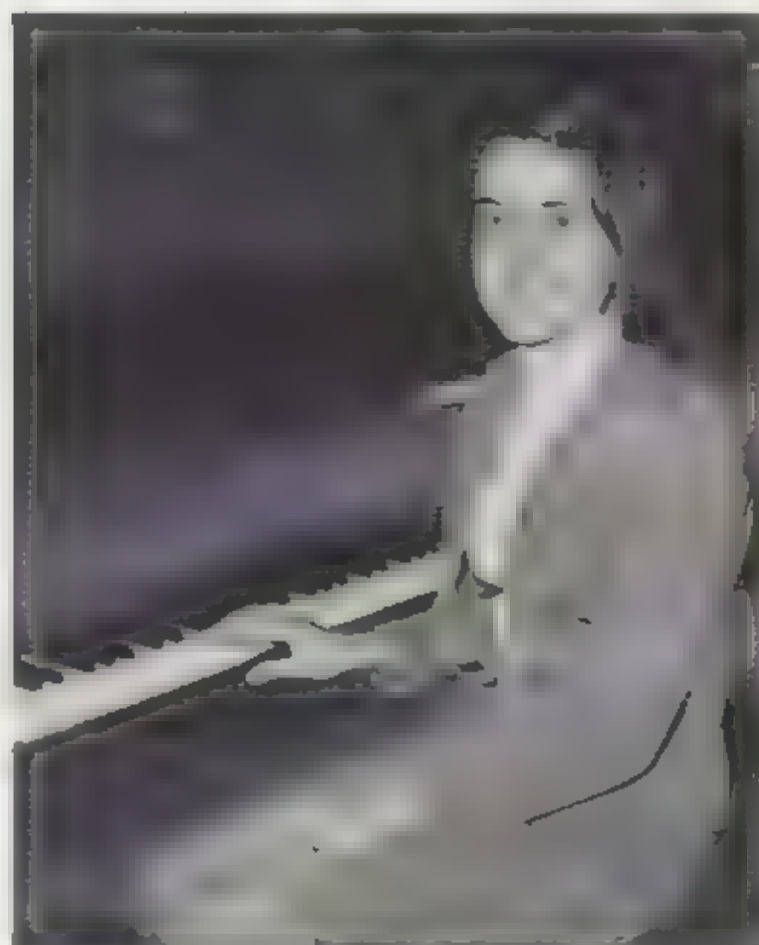

Fine Arts

As Art Department Head, Mr. Clabaugh put every inch of the new art room to good use. He also taught mechanical drawing.

Mr. Skinner taught all Band students. He did his usual fine job as head of the Music Department.

Ready with a smile and beautiful voice, Sr. Bernadine gave her best to the choruses.

They That Help

A very energetic and assistant coach, Tim Wetze, was the sunshine of our lives.

Mrs. Patterson helped at Centra as a speech therapist.

The two student teachers who taught at Centra this year were Miss Benz, who assisted Mr. Cabaugh in art classes, and Mr. Gannon, who assisted Sr. Jeanne with speech.

Miss Sarah Wilkins was the Title I reading teacher.

Clubs

An Organization For All

Where would the student body be without a Student Council to represent it, act for it and make decisions for it? These are just a few of a good council's functions, and often they prove to be the very basis for any student oriented action.

This year's council, under the leadership of President Ted Grennan and Sponsor Mr. Kayl, was an active group in activities such as the Pancake Feed and Karnival Kapers.

Though often subject to criticism, the council perhaps did awaken the students to this thought: The Student Council is not a private club. Its sole purpose is to serve, yet it can not if the students won't let it. The Student Council is in reality, the whole student body.

Student Council officers Sponsor Mr. Kayl, Vice-president Cyndi Flannigan, Secretary, Jean Butler, President, Ted Grennan and Treasurer Connie Swanson.

Assemblies

Everything from vocal groups, to clowns, to ventriloquists entertained Central students at Wednesday assemblies this school year. Assembly committee chairman, Mary Wagoner, did her best to see that the entertainment was the kind that the majority of Central students would like. Wednesday assembly time was also used a great deal for advisor-advisee meetings at which report cards, problems, and solutions were discussed.

F.H.A. Girls Enthusiastic

The F.H.A. helps prepare these girls for their roles as future homemakers

The Future Homemakers of America has been a very active club. Some fund raising projects the F.H.A. had were bake sales and the selling of school uniforms. One major project was visiting with the elderly at Lake View Nursing Home once a month. All activities led to a State Leadership Conference in Lincoln in the spring

Lifting Their Voices In Song

People in music long to make everyone realize that, indeed, "music is the universal language of mankind." This year's choruses, swing choirs, and soloists strove to give everyone their message in song.

Participating in Handel's Christmas Messiah, directed by guest clinician, Eric Stein, All State, The Regional Music Contest, and other activities, these music lovers achieved their goal very well.

The 100 member Mixed Chorus (now including freshmen) was Central's largest ever.

Sr. Bernadine kept busy with the choruses at Central and Blessed Sacrament

These freshman and sophomore voices blended into the sound of the Swing Choir

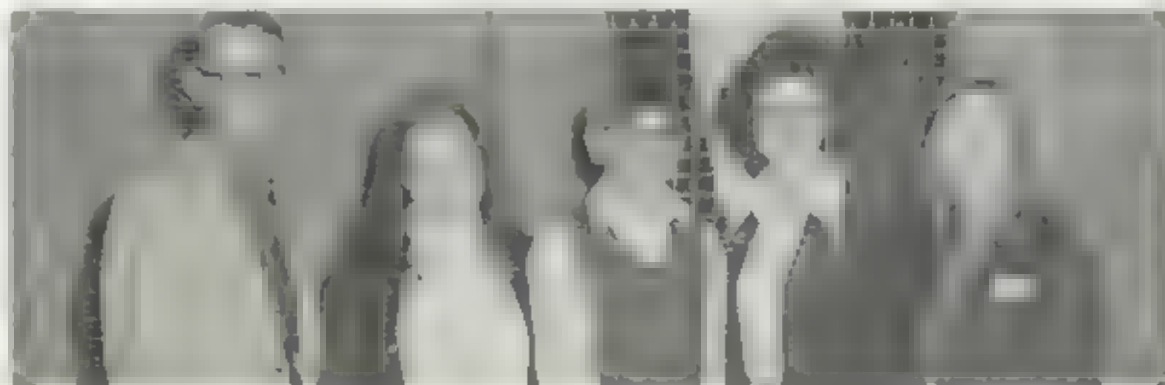

Contest Soloists: Marcie Lewandowski, Connie Paustian, Pat Hannon, Jackie Honeycutt, Patty Leslie, Jim Wassinger, and Denise Rosno

Four Central Catholic students were selected to perform as part of this year's All-State Band and Chorus at the annual Music Educator's National Conference in Fremont. Seniors Sharon Lewandowski and Lynette Honeycutt participated in the chorus. Juniors Liz Allen and Steve Rosno played in the band. Band director, Rockney Skinner, and choral instructor, Sr. Bernadine, accompanied the students.

Band And Drill Team

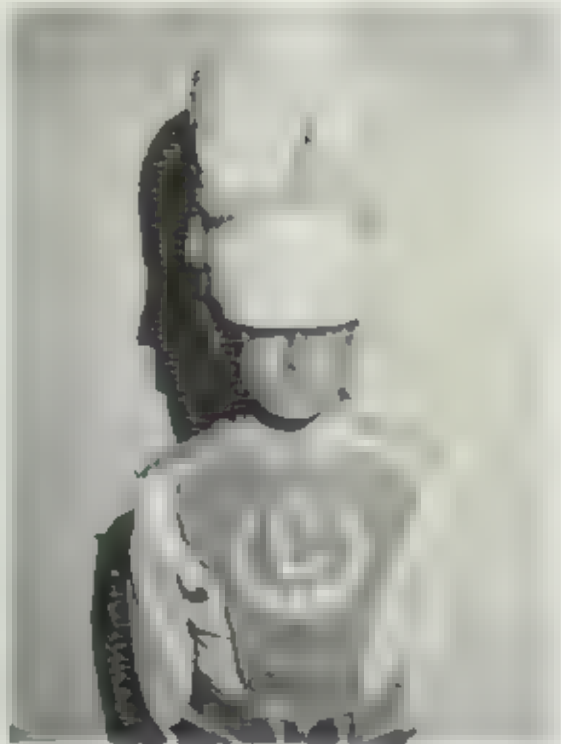

The band officers and Mr. Skinner take on a serious pose

The '73-'74 Crusader Marching Band and Drill Team made a fine display of CC Pride all year long. Trying their very best to instill spirit and enthusiasm, they themselves were excellent examples. They marched again at the annual Harvest of Harmony parade in October. A highlight of the year was the band's participation in a Christmas Clinic and Concert under the direction of guest clinician, Eric Stein

Pep Club Boosts Exuberant Spirit

Some people think Pep Clubs are unnecessary. But in reality, they serve a purpose, and do some very necessary things for every school. At Central, the Pep Club is an important group of girls. They help boost pride and spirit, sometimes even creating it, and they love the boys they cheer for, even when they become the losing side.

Every year the challenge changes hands—the club loses leaders, gains new ones—but the feeling is the same—spirit and pride are always there.

The hardworking Pep Club officers were Liz Allen, vice-president, JoEllen Davis, secretary, Mary Stauss, president, and Mrs. Kay, sponsor.

Junior High Cheerleaders (CLOCKWISE FROM TOP): Marcie Lewandowski, Head-Barb Koch, Cathy Costello, Jennifer Johnson and Micki Newman

Cheerleaders have to be spirit-makers and morale-boosters besides just the leaders of cheers at every game. In this respect, the 73 - 74 Junior Varsity and Junior High Cheerleaders qualified right up at the top. Never letting their teams down, they continually strove to do their very best. Throughout every season, these girls displayed an enormous amount of pride, determination, spirit, support, and genuine love for Central Catholic. None of us ever knew how much spirit cheerleaders might have until we saw these ten at games throughout the year

It takes a lot to work as hard and be as spirited as these girls were. Crusader Staff Creates A Memory

Head of the Crusader staff this year were the editors Sharon Lewand, who Copy, Jody Spanel, Editor-in-Chief, and Bernie Dorsey, Layout.

Look at it this way: A yearbook is a unique creation. It is a book of memories, of friends, of days never to be forgotten. This book reflects the ideas of the students.

Then look at it this way: A yearbook is a datebook of deadlines. It is a book of headaches, arguments, and complimentary captions. This book is filled with pictures that aren't always the best and copy that is hurriedly written.

A yearbook is both of those descriptions—sometimes more the first than the second and sometimes more the second than the first. But whichever the case may be, it is above all an unforgettable experience which teaches creativity, perhaps, but above all patience.

With all the work of editor Jody Spanel, and the very special help of Mrs. Ley, this book is very close to what the staff wanted it to be. We all hope it is what you wanted it to be as well.

Serving again as advisor was Mrs. Ley who spent many long hours proofreading and correcting mistakes.

"Pioneer Pride"

Under the general theme of "Pioneer Pride", "Tracks to the West" was chosen by the Student Council as the subtheme of Central's 1973 Harvest of Harmony float. With the combined efforts of Mr. Kayl, Mr. Clabaugh, Chris Kiolbasa and the rest of the student body, the float was a prize winning success. Miss Shayla Robertson was selected by the student body to represent Central in the Harvest of Harmony Parade. As Miss Central Catholic, Shayla acted as hostess to visiting contenders for the title of Queen. The Crusader Marching Band and Drill Team, under the direction of Rockney Skinner, also took an active part in the parade.

From Faraway Places

Odile Desmoulins-France

Luis Perez-Brazil

Central became the destination for two foreign exchange students for the 73-74 school year. They were Odile Desmoulins, a sophomore from France and Luis Perez, a senior from Brazil. Both Odile and Luis proved to be favorites in their classes, and all of us hated to have them leave us when we had become such good friends. We hope that they may have as many good memories of us as we have of them.

Junior Miss

Vying for the title of Junior Miss is a unique and rewarding experience. Though the pace may at times be harrowing, and the excitement almost too much, this contest is one from which everyone emerges a winner in some sense. The experience gained, the friendships made, the energy expanded, and the effort put out all add up to a very rewarding event in the lives of the contestants.

Central Catholic's contestants this year were Sandy Czapski and Pam Lukasiewicz. Sandy performed a gymnastic routine while Pam sang and danced. Sandy was chosen as third runner-up.

Junior Honors

Boys State-John Woodruff

Girls State-Liz Allen

Recommended by school officials for their outstanding leadership and participation in school activities were John Woodruff and Liz Allen. They were chosen to represent Central Catholic at the annual Boys and Girls State, respectively. The convention, held in June at the University of Nebraska, gives boys and girls an opportunity to study our government and understand its basic functions

Pancake Feed

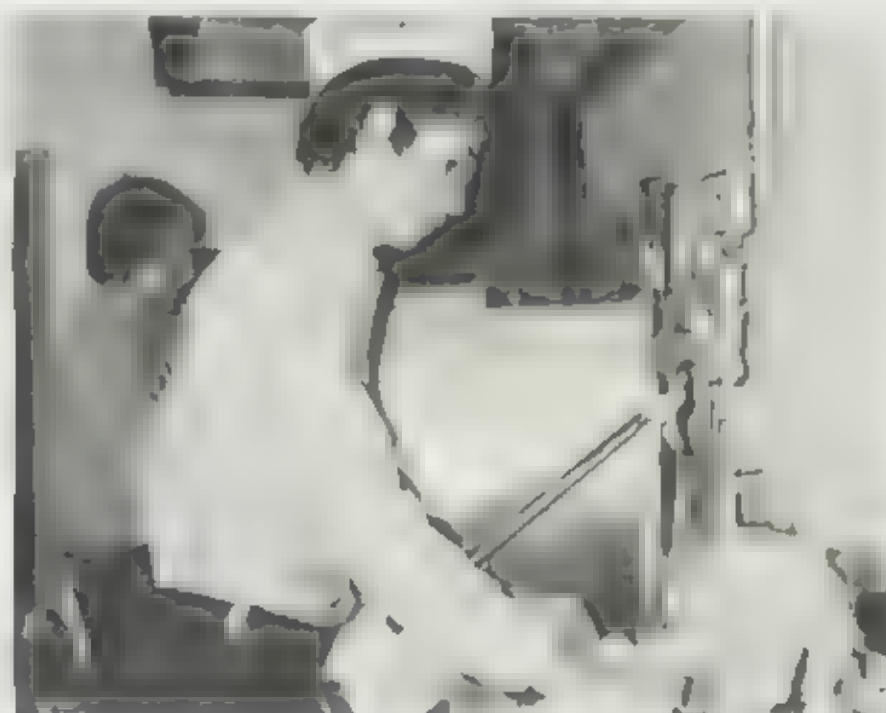

Swarms of people awaited the delicious pancakes served by Central students

What makes people eat so many pancakes? At the Pancake Feed held in January this year, everyone found that the superior cooking of Central boys and girls, and the help of Mr. Les Ingoldsby and Mr. Kayl made the people come back for more. The Feed was the most successful one held in the seven years that the Student Council has sponsored it. Mr. Ingoldsby was presented with a plaque from the Student Council thanking him for his seven years of service and help with this event

Dancing In The Moonlight

"Dancing in the Moonlight" set the mood for the 1974 Jr.-Sr. Prom, with the Chancellors providing the sounds. The annual festivity was again held at the Liederkrantz where the hardworking junior class decorated accordingly. The color scheme was silver and blue with candles set in stars for center-pieces. The celebration continued for most, throughout the night

May Crowning

The month of May found the senior class following tradition with the crowning of the Blessed Mother. The ceremony was held at Blessed Sacrament Church with the seniors leading the procession in their caps and gowns followed by the attendants, their escorts, and flower girls. Pam Lukasiewicz, selected by the student body as queen, crowned the Virgin Mary. Her escort was John Mueller.

Honor Students Receive Awards

If any day belongs to seniors besides graduation, it is the day of Honors Convocation. Honoring those who deserved honors and applauding those who deserved a well-earned pat on the back, the day was a short but well-remembered one. Beginning with Mass, the events continued with a huge sign of peace, followed by awards and Senior Breakfast. For those who had been striving for so long to make these years four of their best, this day climaxed the effort and made it very much worthwhile.

Friends look on with joy and sadness as the seniors walk together for the last time

For the seniors of '74, May 12 was the day. After four, or maybe even five, years of effort and making use of a never-say-die spirit, the seniors were finally where they felt they were meant to be—on top, happy, at the end of a long road. Celebrities for a day, nothing could take away the magic of "never having to come back." No one knows freedom like a graduated high school senior. Ask and they'll tell you—there's no other feeling like it.

Coaches Carl Tesmer, Randy Steinle, Howard Schumann, and Tom Wetzel

Randy Steinle assumed the duties of head football coach when Mike Fitzpatrick resigned after coaching four years. The team was inexperienced, and the going was rough, but the boys fought hard and never lost their pride. Their dreams came true when the gridmen defeated their crosstown rival, Northwest. With their hopes up and the whole school behind them, the Crusaders continued to battle for the rest of the season.

Cagers Display Dauntless Effort

The '74 basketball team was an inexperienced one. They had their share of losses at the beginning of the season; but they improved steadily, competing against a tough schedule. Several games were lost by only a few points proving that the team never let down. The Crusaders were urged on by the spirited Pep Club who backed them all the way. Head coach, Mr. Northup, reviewing the past season, has great hope for the coming year.

CC Matmen Produce Best Record

John Mueller whistles, and sweat drips into his opponent's ear.

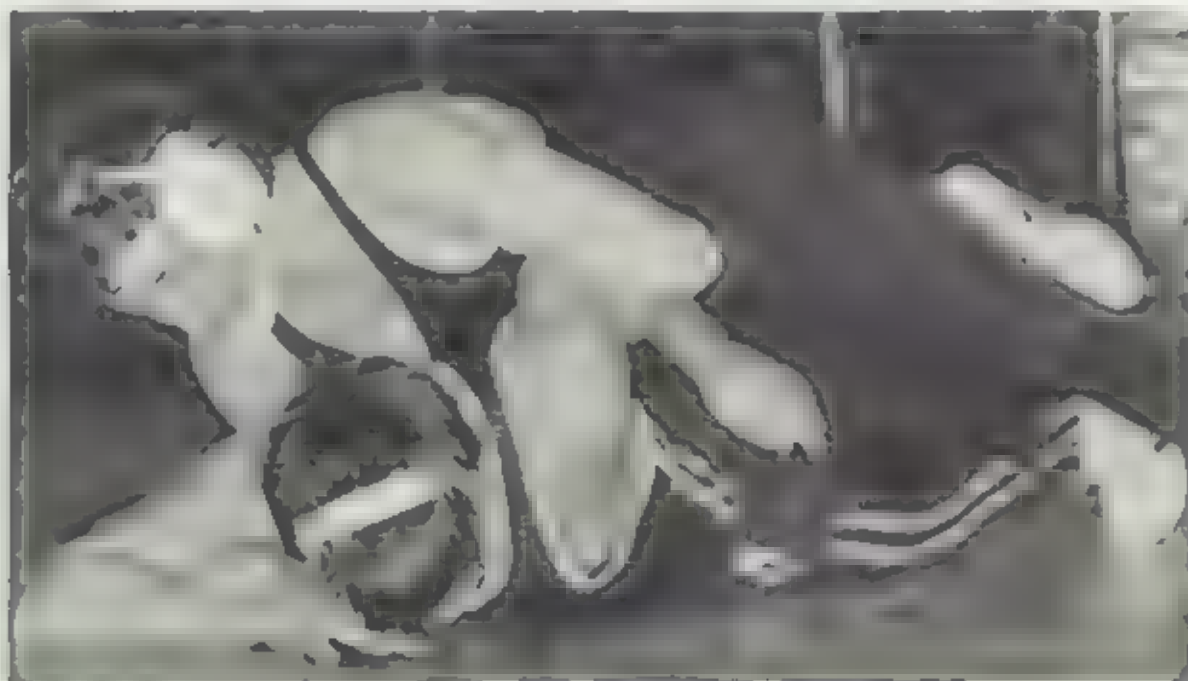

The 73-74 wrestling season was a bright spot in Central's athletic history. The team produced the best record yet, had a state tournament qualifier, and beat Grand Island Northwest for the first time in Central wrestling history! The wrestling team produced the best dual record with 6 wins and 3 losses. Dan Rork, representing CC at 126 lb. class, qualified and competed in the Nebraska State Wrestling Tournament. The dual season was highlighted with the first two victories ever over Northwest in 5 years of wrestling competition. The 73-74 season was just a stepping stone for years to come!

Tracksters Display Effort

Tim Sullivan is all form as he hurdles down home stretch

The Crusader track team was noted for outstanding individual highlights sprinkled throughout the season. The record was not as important as the fact that the team completed its mission by laying the foundation for the '75 squad

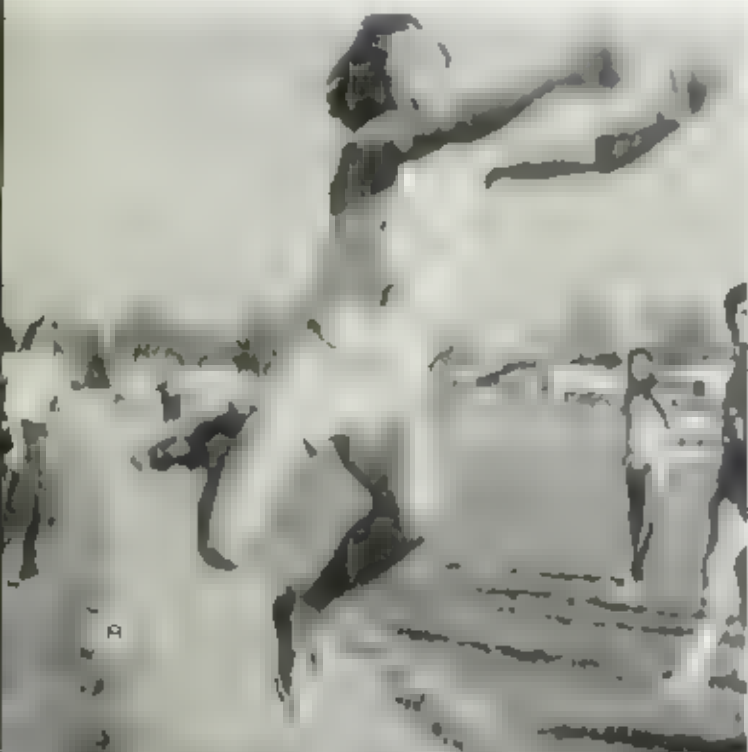

The track team will lose many participants to graduation, including three-year letterman, Mike Slattery. Mike was the team's leading high jumper for the past three seasons

The '74 season was encouraging. With the addition of new facilities and underclassmen gaining valuable experience, the future looks bright

Junior Blues Aim For Future.

Junior high track again was a highlight in junior high athletics. After completing outstanding football and basketball campaigns, track fit right in.

With many members competing on the varsity level, they still had time to turn in outstanding performances for the junior high track team.

Most importantly, the juniors jelled into a solid unit to comprise the future varsity track teams for years to come.

Golf Team Notes Improvement

Woody prepares to tee off

The '74 Central golf team, coached by Fred Northup, really laid the groundwork for its future golfers. Better scores appeared as the golfers competed in a bigger and tougher schedule.

John Schueth supplied experience on the squad while young golfers John Woodruff, Mike Eoratti, Steve Winfrey, Bruce Jakubowski, John Weidner, Dave Zastrow, Todd Grennan, Doug Popken, and Kevin Ingoldsby improved throughout the season.

Girls Gain Experience

Bockhahn clears the bump while Cyndi and Patty move into position

Again the C.C. volleyball team under the experienced guidance of June O'Neill provided its fans with an exciting and action filled season. Although the record was not so successful, both the Varsity and Jr. Varsity teams excelled in determination. Important experience was gained and the future season appears to be more successful

Academics

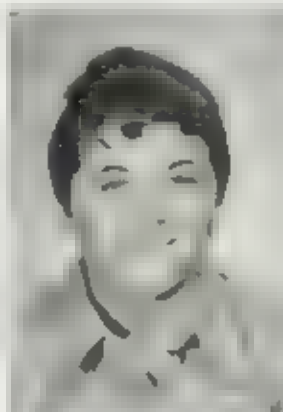

The Baby Blue Survive Again

Hesitantly, they toddled into the halls with memorized last-minute advice from Mom, forewarned and wary of befriending upperclassmen, frightened, almost, of each other. Shyly, they asked themselves, "Can we make it?" They did; and within a few weeks, the newcomers breezed through each day with the sureness of veterans

Determined Sophomores Move On

If there's one thing true about sophomores, it's this: You can never get a sophomore down. The synonym of sophomore is "spirited", and that description seemed to fit this year's class to a tee. Sophomores are individuals, with their own personalities. Always busy, always determined, always willing to help, they worked hard enough to get to the place sophomores always are—caught in the middle of things, but never there for long.

Junior Life Alive With Energy

When you see someone sure of himself, energetic, spirited and laughing easily, then you know he has to be a junior. Juniors have a distinct personality; they have the most fun, the best times, and the worst arguments. Whatever they do, they do hard and well with no if's, and's, or but's. They are on the edge of the prime of their high school career

Seniors

Class Of '74 Enjoys Last Year At C.C.

Seniors are a special breed. They are as hesitant sometimes, as eighth graders, as busy as freshmen, as far-seeing as sophomores, and as rambunctious as juniors. And yet they are none of these things because they are special, unique, the top of the past, and the bottom of the future. Reaching the top after four years, they are suddenly starting over again.

This class holds dreams and promises. It is a goal—something to strive for. Still, when you find yourself a senior, the class does not contain the magic it seemed to have when everybody else was in it. It's not so special—the people, the ideas, the plans, the laughs aren't so new.

No—it's not so exciting. The excitement has to be made, the people have to change, the ideas have to be thought of, the plans coordinated, the laughs laughed at. There's a reason, one you never know until you get there. Nobody becomes a senior. When the time comes you make yourself a part of the senior class.

The senior class officers find themselves trying to escape the humdrum of high school life. They are: Dave Lofholm, representative; Jody Spanel, secretary-treasurer; Chris Kiolbasa, representative; Mary Wadner, president; and Steve Jackson, representative. NOT PICTURED

In many ways this is the most significant time of your lives

You have individually and collectively accomplished something of which you can be proud. You have graduated . . . and in doing so you have left your mark on your classmates, your school and your community.

But things are changing for you . . . you are adults. Complete with a new set of rights, privileges, responsibilities and challenges. Much of the shape of our society depends on just what you do with these new challenges and responsibilities.

We at Sperry New Holland, have faith that you will make the right choice and select the right course using the keen judgement and idealism that is characteristic of your generation.

It is in this faith that Sperry New Holland and its employees offer heartfelt congratulations and best wishes to you . . . the class of '74.
